5 KEY CHALLENGES IN CHINA MARKET

Chinese Dialects and Minority Languages Map

1. China is one market but a diverse one

- 23 provinces, 56 ethnic groups, 7 major dialects
- 14 major cities, and 4 tier one cities

2. Different and also detached from the rest of the world

- local distribution networks & regulatory requirements are different

5 KEY CHALLENGES IN CHINA MARKET

3. Behavioural change may take time

Introducing a new and unfamiliar product to Chinese consumers may take a long time to establish new set of behaviors.

International successful brands can often fail in China if deep rooted purchase motivation not understood enough.

Chinese consumers drinking national spirits “Baijiu”

4. Changing consumer preferences

The market and brand choices are more diverse these days. Local brands through improved quality and marketing are getting more competitive

5 KEY CHALLENGES IN CHINA MARKET

5. Government Policy Overrules

Businesses can be severely impacted by Government policy. In November 2012, the anti-extravagance policy was introduced which aims to restrict corruption in the political and corporate environments. As a result, Cognac SALES plummeted in 2013/14 in China, and took 5 years to resume.

POST COVID-19 – EXISTING TRENDS BEING “FAST FORWARDED”

Digitalization

Digital engagement became mainstream

Reduced international mobility

Increase in domestic market spending

Consumers more prudent

More cautious in spending

Private sector step up:

WeChat had to support government initiative

Intense competition

Big local brands increase investment to gain share and upgrade

OVERALL TREND OF WHISKY EXHIBITION

1. Base on the whisky category fast grow these 2 years, more and more whisky exhibition in different region: (key region still focus on South, high potential in West)
Key & 1st tier City: Shanghai, Beijing, Shenzhen
Active and high potential City: Xiamen, Chengdu, Changsha
2. Good brand image building and effective for distributor to find new trade and private customers
3. Good opportunity for brand to build image, present the brand to target consumer; also good for CYL to support distributor for local channel development and sales consumption

WHISKY: SCOTCH DOMINATES THE WHISKY MARKET

- Blended Scotch should have recovered by the end of 2021 and continue to grow thereafter, driven by growing consumption in smaller bars and off-premise.
- Malt Scotch will continue to grow strongly, with supply constraints the main limitation.

US Whiskey:

Bourbon grows quickly, only for cocktail blending (80% internal consumption)

Irish Whiskey:

Big potential (original, 3 distilled, value-for-money) smooth and light, easy for young consumers to drink

Japanese Whisky:

Very limited production, good at marketing to develop the “collectable range”
